12. Details of internal revenue if any generated by the Institution/ Department on amount of this programme : Nil

Briefly mention about technological / academic / or any other benefit generated by conducting this programme with respect to a) the institution, b) the faculty, c) students, d) industry / society.

a) The institution:

The host institution, Rajeev Gandhi Memorial College of Engineering and Technology (Autonomous), Nandyal-518501, Andhra Pradesh benefited by way of the following:

The Short Term Training Program (STTP-Online Mode) on “Challenges in Electric Vehicular Battery Charging & Grid Integration Issues” has provided a platform for Engineers and Researches to exchange ideas on various areas of Grid Integration, Electric Vehicular and Battery Charging & Control. The STTP has given an opportunity to our institution to host this type of event and has improved its reputation on-par with the premier research institutions in the country. Since this institution is located in the rural area, organizing the STTP has given great exposure to our institution at National Level. The theme and subtheme chosen for the training program was very much relevant research trends, and has given prospective authors to emit of discussion and deliberations. This training program has unleashed the novel technologies and addresses various issues connected with Electrical vehicular battery charging and grid integration issue by considering the power quality and abundant supply as per the demand towards the environmental and societal needs across the globe to create hygienic and comfortable living atmosphere.

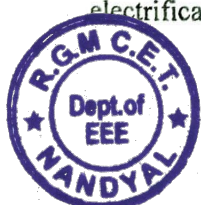

b) The faculty & (c) Scholars

Over 654 participants from various institutions have participated in this event (Phase-I, Phase-II and Phase-III) and participants include Faculty, R & D Engineers, Research Scholars and PG students. All the participants got the exposure about the training program. Research scholars and PG Students are very much satisfied and announced that they have got enormous research inputs in their research areas because of the training program given by eminent personalities from premier institutions and Industries. Other Engineering Colleges have appreciated the efforts of the host institution.

d) Industry/ Society:

The resource persons have vast experience in the areas of Electrical vehicular battery charging and grid integration issue of India.

Nowadays, modern societies are facing the well-known problems of environmental air pollution, forcing the adoption of new strategies for mitigating greenhouse gas emissions. Some of the actions for alleviating such emissions are mainly offered by emerging smart grids, and are continuous by (i) Renewable energy sources (RES) on small- and large-scale; (ii) energy storage systems (ESS) as a support of RES adoption; and (iii) vehicle electrification encompassing advanced functionalities. This is even more evident considering that the technologies in the field of industrial and power electronics have evolved in recent years, contributing towards a profound and motivating change of standard.

From an industry and society point of view, a complete outline about the status and issues toward the vehicle electrification is discussed, whereas an economic investigation of consumer's viewpoint for the electric mobility supremacy is presented. The impact that vehicle electrification can cause in the electrical grid is also discussed and a survey concerning the vehicle electrification encompassed in a smart grid background are presented in this event. This event focuses on the challenges and opportunities that arise from vehicle electrification, concretely in terms of the utilization of the on-board and off-board EV battery chargers (EVBCs) for innovative operation modes. Thus, besides the traditional operation modes, grid-to-vehicle (G2V) and vehicle-to-grid (V2G), also this event focuses on the possibility to integrate power quality features in the on-board and off-board EVBCs, as a contribution for the grid-side, as well as on the framework with unified technologies with RES and ESS.

Briefly mention about technological / academic / or any other benefit generated by conducting this programme with respect to a) the institution, b) the faculty, c) students, d) industry / society.

a) The institution:

The host institution, Rajeev Gandhi Memorial College of Engineering and Technology (Autonomous), Nandyal-518501, Andhra Pradesh benefited by way of the following:

The “National Conference on Recent Trends in Electrical Engineering (NCRTEE-2019)”. The NCRTEE-2019 has provided a platform for Engineers and Researchers to exchange ideas on various areas of Electrical Engineering such as Renewable Energy Sources, Power System & Control and Power Electronics & Control. NCRTEE has given an opportunity to our institution to host this type of event. Which has improved its reputation on-par with the premier research institutions in the country. Since this institution is located in the rural area, organizing the NCRTEE has given great exposure to our institution at National Level. The theme and subtheme chosen for the conference were very much relevant research trends, and has given prospective authors to emit of discussion and deliberations. This conference has unleashed the novel technologies and address various issues connected with Electrical power generation, transmission, distribution and utilization by considering the power quality and abundant supply as per the demand towards the environmental and societal needs across the globe to create hygienic and comfortable living atmosphere.

b) The faculty & c) Scholars

Over 60 participants from various institutions have participated in this event and participants include faculty, research scholars and PG students. All the participants got the exposure about the recent trends in the areas of Electrical Engineering. Research scholars are very much satisfied and announced that they have got enormous research inputs in their research areas because of the keynote lectures given by eminent personalities from premier institutions and Industries. Other Engineering Colleges have appreciated the efforts of the host institution.

d) Industry/ Society:

The Keynote persons have vast experience in the areas of Renewal Energy Systems, Control System operation for locomotives and Flight control mechanisms of India.

Academician from premier institute has explained the need to concentrate on the increasing the electrical power generation using solar and Wind energy. The total amount of energy, we use every year from coal, oil, natural gas, hydro, nuclear, and everything else is dwarfed by the amount of solar energy hitting the planet each year. He has explained the need of photovoltaic systems and Wind Energy systems towards industry environment and as well as towards the society. The resource person suggested all participants to focus the R & D activities on photovoltaic systems, Wind Energy conversion and different inverters which can be used in their respective institutions.

Industrialist from General Electrical (G.E) has explained about Control System application in Transportation industry. It has onboard train control system. Trip Optimizer (TO) functions much like an aircraft’s autopilot, learning a train’s characteristics. He explained about creating an optimal trip profile, then automatically controlling locomotive throttle and
